New York Market
What can one expect but dullness in a week when the convention of one of the great political parties was taking place? Business on the stock exchange has fallen to a point which marks it as worse than dull. It is deadly.
The stock exchange looks like a graveyard, in which the market is simply a ghost of its former self.

However, there are better times coming. Secretary of Agriculture, Wilson, who has just returned from a trip through the West, predicts bumper crops in almost all commodities that grow. "The condition of crops this season," he says, is better than at this time last year. All the grains, including corn and wheat, are doing splendidly. The corn stand-is especially notable and prospects are for a better cotton crop than last year."

Bumper crops will make good business; they cannot fail to improve business. With good crops business activity will be stimulated this fall in spite of elections, and the market for securities will grow steadily stronger under the influence of buying by those who have money for investment. The trouble with the markets at present is that the investor has taken to the woods, and there is an absence of support given to stocks by people who are interested in maintaining prices. There is no public buying to speak of, and there is just enough public selling to make nearly all the markets heavy and dull with a tendency toward weakness. Just a little loosening of the purse strings would cause a radical change in the tone of the securities market.

Within the course of the next two or three months prices should improve, and by next spring prosperity should be in full swing again. Make a note of this; by next spring, people will have forgotten all about the panic of 1907, and business men will be again making plans constructively, for the making of money.

So far as the mining markets are concerned, they are suffering not merely from summer dullness, financial stringency and a post-panic decline from bottom prices, but also from the effect produced by the bursting of some of the balloons which a year ago looked big and round and majestic. Greene Gold-Silver, Tonopah Extension, Furnace Creek, North Butte Extension, and a few other crumbles are responsible for much of the public apathy toward mines. After a few more of the erstwhile favorites have come to grief, there will be a still larger number of disgusted investors, who will, we fear, find little comfort in the mining list until the meritorious part of the list advances on its worth.

Good, bad and indifferent stocks have gone down together in the slaughter which came after the money panic of last October and November.

If now the investors of the country will have the wisdom to come into the market and pick up the real bargains which are to be had, they will be able to recoup themselves against many of the losses which they have suffered.

It is a trite saying, but just as true as when it was first said, that experience is the best teacher. Oftimes the best place to go to make money is the place where one has lost it. One knows what pitfalls to avoid and what virtues to look for. There is no gainsaying the fact that the mining market contains many surprising opportunities, and that there are spots in the market for profits much greater than can be found among other classes of securities. The problem is to select wisely and to invest boldly.

Among the best coppers for investment at the present time are Nevada Consolidated, Cumberland-Ely, Imperial, Miami, Mason Valley and British Columbia. As a speculation, Davis-Daly offers exceptional opportunities. Among the gold mining stocks, are Goldfield Consolidated, Florence, El Oro and Esperanza, with excellent speculative possibilities in such Goldfield issues as Combination Fraction, St. Ives, Great Bend, Kewanas and Oro.

Guanatuto Cons. is cheap and should be bought; it will be worth a good deal more later on.
United Rico is an excellent speculative investment. Some of the Tintics, notably Crown Point, Mountain Lake and Iron Blossom have good speculative possibilities, both marketwise and from a mining standpoint.
There are many things in the mining list that are worth more money than they are selling for.

DONALD C. CATLIN.

Soon to Explore Lapland.
Harry de Windt has returned to London from Kirkenes, on the Arctic ocean, where he has been for the purpose of making preparations for his forthcoming journey across Lapland to the Kola peninsula, a wild, hitherto unknown region of steppes and mountains. Although within a few hundred miles of Archangel, the country to be visited is more difficult of access than the regions traversed by the explorer on his last journey in northwest Siberia. Mr. de Windt will leave England on January 1. The sun rises in the Kola peninsula on the 18th of that month. He will proceed by way of St. Petersburg and Helsinki to Ullaborg, at the head of the Baltic.
Thence he will travel in sleds a month's journey across Lapland to the Arctic ocean. It is expected that the expedition will last about six months.

Diving for Alligators.
While walking near a pond in the woods, Bullie Ham, who can tell the presence of an alligator by the smell of the critter, pulled off his coat and took a header under the water. While at the bottom of the pond Bullie's leg arose to the surface and waved to the men near the shore. The warning was heeded by the men catching Bullie's leg and giving it a yank that brought Bullie to the surface, and with Bullie came an alligator that measured some four feet in length.—Apalachicola Color Blindness.

What is color blindness is sometimes the result of a lack of education as to the different colors. In such a case the remedy is instruction in the various colors. But when color blindness is the result of a defect of the nerves of the eyes there is no remedy.

Happy in Slumber.
Michael Callahan, a section boss for the Southern railroad in the little town of Ludlow, Ky., has a keen Gaelic wit. One warm afternoon while walking along the railroad tracks he found a section hand placidly sleeping beside the rails. Callahan looked disgustedly at the delinquent for a full minute and then remarked:
"Slape on, ye lazy spalpeen, slape on, fur as long as you slape you've got a job, but when you wake up you ain't got none."
